New York, Feb. 15.-After wrangling for seven hours behind closed doors the National League baseball magnates adjourned at 9 o'clock to-night without adopting a playing schedule for the coming season. At 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon they will reconvene at the Waldorf-Astoria, but whether they can reach an agreement or not remains to be seen.

Bitter factional feeling manifested dur ing the Ward-Heydler deadlock at the December meeting, which was broken by the election of Thomas J. Lynch to the presidency, caused to-day's wrangle, and so heated was the argument that the magnates who entered the star chamber at 9 o'clock forgot all about the dinner hour. When they finally left the assembly room they were in anything but

The situation when the reporters were called in was just this:

Five clubs, New York, Brooklyn, Chifor one of 154 games. As it requires six votes to adopt a schedule, and as the enable the delegates to recuperate.

Ebbets and Murphy Lead.

Ebbets, of the Brfooklyn club, and C. W. Murphy, of the Chicago's, led in the gramme will be those between the Carargument for 168 games. In the course lisie Indians and Wesleyan University, of a heated discussion, they practically between the Maryland Agricultural Colcharged Herrmann, of the Cincinnati club, lege, Richmond College, and St. John's and Dreyfuss, of Pittsburg, with making College, of Annapolis; between Mercers a secret compact with President Johnson, berg Academy and the Episcopal High of the American League, to force the School, of Alexandria; between the adoption of the 154-game schedule. Ebbets Washington and Baltimore Y. M. C. Ebbets pointed out that before he could complete his task Dreyfuss and Herrmann rushed into print with statements scoring the plan and advocating 154 games, which will prevail in the American League this season. It was further pointed out that Dreyfuss and Herrmann aided Ban Johnson in bringing about the defeat of John M. Ward for the presidency of the National League, whereupon the Cincinnati and Pittsburg men jumped into the fray in earnest.

When John T. Brush declared himse in favor of 168 games the fight waxed hotter, and the climax was reached when M. S. Robison showed similar partiality Robison made an extended argument against the shorter schedule. He showed that last year he had at least ten open dates in St. Louis during the month of | ment Y. M. He said that it was purely a matter of business with him, and that the longer schedule was worth a trial; also, that if it proved unpopular this year the league could go back to first principles.

Robison Has Kick Coming. Robison argued that the world's series could be played after October 15 without inconvenience, and said that as the players' contracts did not expire until that date, it was unfair to ask fourteen of the sixteen major league clubs to remain idle nine or ten days, while the others *took part in the world's championship

Herrmann and Dreyfuss, in reply endeavored to show that the public did not want more than 154 games, and that any
